ARCHITECTURAL DESCRIPTION:

Describe architectural features. Evaluate the characteristics of this building in terms of other buildings within the community.

This house was built according to the same plans as its neighbor at 360 Marrett Road. The  $1\frac{1}{2}$ -story,  $3 \times 2$ -bay structure is a gambrel-roofed Dutch Colonial structure sheathed in wood clapboards and set on a mortared stone foundation. A full shed dormer spans the front roof slope. The center entrance contains a paneled door and is flanked by sidelights. It is sheltered by a shallow entrance porch consisting of a broken pediment supported by Doric columns. A wooden fan caps the door. Windows include paired 6/1 sash adjacent to the entrance, a tripartite unit over the entrance and 8/1 sash on either side.

HISTORICAL NARRATIVE

Discuss the history of the building. Explain its associations with local (or state) history. Include uses of the building, and the role(s) the owners/occupants played within the community.

This house was constructed after 1906 and was part of the Fair Oaks subdivision, originally laid out in 1909 by Arthur E. Horton. Few houses were built as part of the original subdivision and the plan was later revised in 1924 after it was acquired by developer Neil McIntosh. This was lot 8 of the revised subdivision. It was one of five houses built in a row on Marrett Road at the same time (356, 358, 360, 364 and 366 Marrett Road).

In 1928 the house was occupied by Joseph W. Buckley (b. 1894), a plumber, and his wife. George Anker was living here by 1942 and the house remained in the Anker family until 1977.
